The Rocks Walking Tours have moved. Part of the neighbourhood for the past 25 years, they now operate from a picturesque 1875 terrace in Playfair Street on the town square. A new office in an old building, a short stroll from their previous Kendall Lane locale. “The story keeps evolving,” says manager Dee Ladd-Hudson, “nothing is set in stone. We interpret a 19th century landscape and allow for people to use their imagination.” The popular 90-minute guided tours of the historic quarter – tell a story of a place and its people – depart daily.
